The Herald and News

His Experience in Joining the Mysterious Order-Claims to Reveal the Secrets,

I flatter myself I know something about secret societies. I've had a passion for that sort of things ever since I was old enough to tell lies.

I have scouted around pretty extensively among the different organizations.

I've been an Orangeman and Fenian, and a Good Templar, and a counterfeiter, and also a Son of Malta.

I have belonged to the Sons of Temperance and the Odd Fellows, and the Young Men's Christian Association, and the Band of Hope, and a Band of Robbers. I've been into everything, and I thought I knew everything most, but I didn't. Three months ago I became infatuated with Masonry, and since I joined that organization, I've discovered that there are several things conconnected therewith that outsiders don't know just a pretty good deal

Now, Mr. Editor, I propose making these secrets public, not out of compassion for my fellow men, who may be tending towards Masonry, and act as a warning, and so on, because I haven't got a spark of human kindness in my heart, and would rather see every mother's son put to the torture than not, because I have a spite against the fellow who initiated me, who made the irons too hot and the goat too frisky, and treated me with a roughness, generally, that the occasion did not warrant.

Before fulminating my narrative, I will state for the information of those who don't know, that Masonry is about six hundred thousand years

It was old when the fraternity got into trouble at the Tower of Bable, and it was old when Adam first put on his apron as Grand Master of Eden Lodge.

As a more convincing truth of its antiquity, I would just mention, that a party of miners the other day, in one of their excavations, came upon the petrified remains of a Masonic Lodge, with the members in their places, and all complete; and an eminent geologist who has examined the fossils are of the opinion that these bodies have been imbedded in the rock for more than fifteen thousand years.

· On the evening I was to be initi ated I made my will, and took a most affectionate leave of my family.

Thus prepared, I started for the lodge, accompanied by brother John Smith, S. R. S. P. T., who was to see me through. -

We had no difficulty getting through the first entrance; but when we knocked at the second, a flat lit-

CONSUMPTION

A Disease That Is The Terror Of Our Times.

Vinol Can Prevent

Consumption is not hereditary. The best physicians today tell us so. A predisposition to the trouble, however, is to be feared. If any of you have had ancestors who suffered from this awful disease or died from it, then you should take particular care.

Your system is such that under favorable circumstances the disease germ is likely to find a resting place, take root, flourish, develop and end as all consumptive cases must end eventually in death. flame, and I found myself in the The person susceptible to this disease is like ground, favorable for the cultivation of certain seeds, the seed once placed on such ground thrives and flourishes.

If you will only come in and let us talk with you, we can tell you better in members standing on their heads in a few minutes' personal conversation all that Vinol can do to cure coughs and prevent consumption than we can describe to you in pages of type. But, briefly we will state for the benefit of our many friends that we know that Vinol invigorates the stomach, enriches the blood, creates flesh and gives to the taker strength, and thus throws off disease. This is done because it contains those valuable medicinal ingredients in a highly concentrated state that made Cod Liver Oil famous. The advantage of Vinol over the old forms of Cod Liver Oil lies in the fact that the medicinal elements are contained in a much more powerful state, and the disagreeable and obnoxious grease that was such a drawback to God millions of years. tle fellow looked out through a cound hole in the door, and put this startling interogatory to Brother Smith: chetuxchronhighcockalorum? to which Brother Smith replied cheerfully: Nix my dolly whack doo.

The little fellow then said: 'Flodzest compbridity untum," and my conductor gave a satisfactory answer and we were permitted to

Before I had time to look around me, a long-legged fellow knocked me down with a club. He then stood on my feet, and another marauder, made a rush at me and brought me down again.

After I had gone through this exhilarating exercise for about five minutes, they stretched me out on a bench and examined my teeth, pinched my muscle, and stuck pins into me all over, and shoved cayenne pepper up my nose, and poured molten lead up my trouser's pocket, and pulled hairs out of the back of my neck with red hot pincers, with a view I suppose to make me feel unembarrassed and at home.

When I came to my senses I was alone in the ante room of the lodge. It was a lively and cheerful apart-

A couple of crocodiles were amusing themselves in a corner, and a few full grown rattle snakes were practicing the flying trapeze on a stove

The furniture consisted chiefly of half a dozen mummies, skeletons of Captain Kid, Lucretia Borgia, Guy Falks, Jack the Giant Killer, Oliver Cromwell, the Wandering Jew, William the Conquorer, Christopher Columbus, and Dick Turpin; flying machine, three barrels of powder, and a remarkably healthy and well developed wild cat.

Just then, half a dozen pirates, clad in aprons and sashes, rushed into the room with a whoop.

One of them-the biggest and the ugliest-who appeared to be the chief, ordered the attendants, in a voice of thunder, to trot out the animal. The attendants disappeared, but immediately re appeared leading an iron clad goat—a regular doubledecker, with sixteen horns, a pair of wings and seven or eight tails stuck all over him.

told to mount, I said: "Gentlemen, if you'll excuse me I rather not. "I'm not accustomed to going up in a balloon, and besides I've got an engagement down town. Besides, my wife wants to see me particularly; I'll be back in a few minutes, I rather think my house is on fire, but I'll be back in a few minutes—yes, gentlemen, in a few." Before I could finish my sentence I was seized from behind and planted firmly astride the ready goat. Somebody then said, "let go," and away he went. I've been through a great many perilous scenes; I've taken part in election fights; I've been down in a railway collision, and up in a steam boat explosion; I've fallen down three flights of stairs, and walked out of a four story window, but this goat ex cursion was ahead of them all. When I came to reflect on the matter, in cold blood, I wondered that I came out alive. The furious beast kicked and screamed, and rolled over, and turned somersaults and front somersaults, and drove me against the ceiling and underneath the chairs till the bandage fell from my eyes and I had to let go. The goat van ished up the chimney in a blue center of the lodge room with about fifty Masons in aprons dancing a war dance around me. The rest of the the different corners, all but the cadaverous buccaneer, who seemed to be the head of the department. Soon they left off dancing and march ed around the room chanting an inspiring dirge. I was then hauled

COL. JNO. D. FROST.

A Leading Candidate for Adjutant and Inspector General.

A strong and prominent candidate for the important office of adjutant and inspector general at the coming election is Col. John D. Frost, of Columbia, at present assistant adjutant and inspector general. He has many friends all over the State who are shxious to see him win and are already at work in his behalf. Over 200 members of the First S. C. Reg ment in the Spanish war reside in this county and all are staunch friends of Col. Frost, who was adjutant of that regiment.

Col. Frost was born and reared in the country, six miles north of Columbia, and received his early training at the graded and high schools of Columbia, S C. Having matr culated at the South Carolina Military Academy in October, 1887, he graduated senior captain of cadets in the year 1891, and has been connected with the military of the State almost continuously since.

At the outbreak of the Spanish American war he volunteered his services to the State, and was appointed regimental adjutant of the First South Carolina Volunteer Infantry by Governor Ellerbe, and was commissioned May 3, 1898. Upon the death of Colonel Alston he was promoted to major and was mustered out of the service with rank of major November 10, 1898. On the 18th day of January, 1899 he was appointed assistant adjutant and inspector general by the present incumbent, General J. W. Floyd, and has contributed his diligent ef forts to enhance the efficiency of the service, and the concensus of opinion is that the militia of the State is to day better equipped, uniformed and disciplined than it has been for years

apt. Patrick for adjutant and Inspector General.

[Anderson Intelligencer.]

Anderson County esteems it a privilege to present to the voters of the State for a State position the name of Captain John M. Patrick, who has announced himself as a candidate for the office of Adjutant and inspector General.

Captain Patrick has for many years been identified with the State militia My eyes were bandaged and I was and with military education and training. He was for some time Captain of the Greenville Guards, is now Captain of the Anderson Rifles, and was for many years a co worker with his father, Col. John B. Patrick, of sacred memory, in the Patrick Military institute in this city.

He is a cultured, Christian gentleman, a man who will do credit to the State and reflect honor on the position to which he aspires in case of his election. Not having had a "State cabinet officer" since the days of Gov. Orr, Anderson County feels justified in presenting to her sister counties the name of this worthy son for the posi tion named.
